COLLEGE GIRLS CONCERT A HIT

Happily They Got Out of the "Classic Rut" and Gave Many Pleasing Songs.

MUSICAL COMEDY NUMBERS

Were Put on With Costumes and Theatrical Effects—Pleased Large Crowd.

They didn't sing Annie Laurie or The Last Rose of Summer or in fact any of the old standards, still the concert given by the College Singing Girls at the Main Street Christian church last night was a huge success. The masses know enough about the classic music to appreciate it, notwithstanding the argument often offered to the contrary; but curses on its classic beauty, whenever anyone or set of individuals prepare a musical program they load it down with the old masters and as a result—generally speaking—we have a repetition of the same program time after time. Anyone who goes to a conservatory and takes up lyceum work afterwards feels obliged to parade a knowledge of what they have absorbed. They proceed to do a few things to the musical master's efforts and nine times out of ten they have a private and "ingrown" interpretation that they put on the work; they push out on the auditor the "underlying motif" and the "theme" of the composition. And you have to sit and take it: applaud like you are pleased—if you don't other people will think you are a low-brow and cannot appreciate good music. In reality, the only enjoyment to be had is to compare the one you are hearing with one you have heard. That's poor amusement.

But the concert last night! It was so different. And that is why nearly everybody was pleased—and tickled to death. The burden of the pieces rendered were light and popular and the only attempt at the "heavy stuff" was some of the good old Spanish compositions, but served in a different style. And garnishment will make any dish more palatable. Spanish costumes were used and the songs put on with action. It was all so refreshing. The people were there to be entertained and if applause means anything, they surely had their wish gratified.

Happily, wisely and thoroughly, selections from a number of comic and light musical comedies—something the small-town folks do not usually get only through "His Master's Voice" and via the wax record route—were given and all were hungry for more. The eight girls say

* SOME FACTS ABOUT
* OUR NEW SENATOR.
* Sixteen days after the beginning of his term as senator Benjamin F. Shively will be 52 years of age. He was born in St. Joseph county and is of a Dunkard stock. He was reared on a farm, taught school before he became of age, conducted a weekly newspaper in South Bend for several years, was first elected to Congress in 1884 to fill a vacancy, and subsequently served three full terms in that body. He was the only Democratic nominee for governor in 1896, and was twice honored with the complimentary vote of his party for United States senator. He is the father of two sons and one daughter, and the husband of one of the most lovable women in America—South Bend Times.

they were good looking daughters in real life; they ought to "recall" that picture they have on their heralds where they look like a lot of foot ball players after the first half) put a lot of life into the work and if a few had only carried spears, one would think they were being entertained by a high class musical comedy. All their songs were costumed and staged after the order of stage productions with many delightful theatrical effects. Some of the best things were the songs from the "Red Mill," Joe Weber's "Girl Behind the Counter," "Miss Pocahontas," "Havana," and "Fantine." A lullaby, with guitar accompaniment, by Miss Margaret Ross, was one of the sweetest and most pleasing numbers of the concert. A specialty by Miss Olive Matson was as good as is seen in high class vanderbilt. She is an artiste of the first rank and has a most promising future. It might be well to mention—by the way—that her father is a former Rush county citizen and was raised near Moscow. They now live in Los Angeles, Cal. The girls played well on mandolins, guitars and drums and in fact, their drum stunt—with the "Rex-all hats"—was a most pretentious number for a concert company.

Walter Eccles was very good in his impersonations only he did not put on enough of them. He insisted on singing and he could not sing a "lick." Some one of his friends—one that loaned him money, for instance, during the past—should call him aside and tell him he cannot sing and admonish him to give a few more recitations; one from James Whitcomb Riley, Eugene Fields, Carolyn Wells, Charles Loomis, with a serious number or two, would serve as a good repertoire. But there was so much sunshine in the program that the little eclipse of Eccles did not mar it.

The high school Senior class, under whose auspices the concert was given, are to be congratulated. They are well pleased with the attendance and assure the patrons and lovers of such things that the next number, while of a different nature, will be equally as good as the one last night.

CARTHAGE PEOPLE SIGN THE PETITION

Although Movement is Non-Partisan, Some Decline to Put Down Their "John Hancock."

PROHIBITIONISTS GET CREDIT

Of the circulation of the county option election petition in Ripley township, the Carthage citizen says in part:

"Three hundred names are desired in this township. To date about one hundred and fifty have been obtained. Although this is intended to be a non-partisan movement, it is one of the freaks of politics that some of the leading Republicans have so far refused to sign the petition while Democrats and Prohibitionists who have heretofore stood on a different basis for the elimination of the saloon, are willing signers. And yet all advance plausible reasons for their present attitude.

Mrs. Laura Leonard, Rush county chairman of the Prohibition party claims the credit for getting the petition started in this county."

INCISION IN THE LUNG.

Greensburg News: John Nesbitt went to see his daughter, Miss Gertrude, who is at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sam. Cowan, near Rushville. The condition of Miss Nesbitt is about the same. Today an incision was made in the lung. Dr. Sexton, of Rushville, is the attending physician.

EXPERT IS HERE GATHERING DATA

Guy Fitzpatrick of Washington, D. C., Notes Care and Progress of Live Stock.

RUSH COUNTY IS HONORED

In Being One of the Few Counties in the United States Selected For the Work.

Guy Fitzpatrick of Washington, D. C., in the employ of the agricultural department of the United States government, is here this week doing special work in a special field of endeavor that is of great benefit to the farmers throughout the States.

His work calls for him to make personal observations and gather data on the matter of the proper feeding and caring of live stock. In Rush county Fitzpatrick selected the farm of D. C. Buell and Thomas Coleman, where he makes daily notes on the amount of feed given the stock and how they progress in weight. Hogs, sheep, cattle and horses are watched with keen interest and weighed from day to day. Experts then go over the figures and compile statistics that are in turn given to the farmers. It is proving one of the most popular departments in the bureau.

When the matter was first taken up it was planned to make observations in several of the middle west States, but when the commission visited Indiana they found the farmers here farther advanced in the agricultural work than any other State, and immediately decided to carry on all the work here. Eight or ten counties were selected and among them Rush county. Then in each county two or three farmers, interested in the work, and willing to assist the government experts, were lined up. Some were a bit reluctant at first, in so much as they had to do all the work without compensation, but as time went on they became more and more interested and now will leave off any other work they may have on hand to assist the expert when he comes around. It is difficult to place an estimate on the good that is bound to result.

SUCCESSFUL IS I. & C. EXPRESS

Merchants Pleased With it and Other Companies are Emulating Red Line.

QUICK SERVICE IS GIVEN

At a Reduction Over Freight Rates—Monday is the Day of the "Big Mail."

There has been much discussion among the newspapers, the business men and the general public concerning the express service recently inaugurated on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line, says the Connersville Courier. That it is a benefit to the citizens was evidenced yesterday when a parcel was delivered at the local station on the 11:18 car for a party who was waiting for it. "I would have to wait for this package six hours longer had it not been for the traction company," said the man.

Station agent, Roy Mitchell, in speaking of the service in general said: "To my knowledge there is only one other company out of Indianapolis that is giving express service, and this was only an experiment at the time, but it has proven successful. Since its inauguration with this company and its subsequent success, other roads are preparing to put on the service. Of course, our express is only station delivery—we have no wagons—but our rate is cheaper than the steam roads. The outbound business is picking up and is especially good out of Indianapolis and Greensburg. The inbound business was exceptionally good from the start and has maintained a steady growth until the present time."

Mr. Mitchell was asked what days the service was the heaviest, and he replied: "Our express is better on Monday than any other morning because it nearly all comes from Rushville and is mostly green goods, while the latter part of the week we get a large amount of fresh goods from Indianapolis. The service is especially advantageous to the merchant as all perishable goods are protected in the car by heat, and they are getting to realize this point more every day."

Mr. Mitchell further said that the indications are that it is going to prove very satisfactory with the people in general, and when it is an established fact that the service can be handled cheaper and quicker than the railroads, there is no question but what the majority of the express business will be handled by the traction lines.

LEE NIXON TO GET LUCRATIVE PLACE

Harrie Jones Will Drive and Train Macy Tell.

Harrie Jones, Rushville, Ind., says the Western Horseman, has added to his stable the good green trotting mare, Macy Tell, by Axtell, owned at Logansport. This mare went a mile last year in 2:12, with a last half in 1:04½. She ought to be quite a mare among the green trotters in 1909.

KING CUPID DOWN AND OUT

Will Probably Hand Over His Wand to the Bachelors.

King Cupid seems to have lost full sway over the hearts of Rush county's fair young ladies and is now about ready to step down and out and hand over his wand to the old bachelors. They are now the "power that be" and have persuaded all the younger members of the fair sex to believe as they do, to settle down and lead the simple life. Only four marriage licenses have been issued this year and all before January 12.

Local Hall of Fame

Prof. David Graham, the "Grand Old Man" of Rushville, is exceedingly fond of croquet and keeps open links for his friends all summer. Although past eighty years of age, he rode a bicycle until last year.

Earl Payne, the banker, is fond of flowers and a capital "designer" of good dinners, which he makes an interesting part of the many Masonic "after degree" work.

Dora Betker, haberdasher and cigarist, might be classed as the town genius. He can design and decorate, paint in oil and water colors, sketch and paint classy signs, upholster furniture, sing and quote from the world's best bards and is up on all new cults. He is interested in spiritualism and often tries his tongue at home made philosophy.

John Laughlin, a cabinet maker in one of the furniture factories here, is probably the best posted individual on history in the county. He is a student and recently contemplated taking up the study of law.

Frank J. Hall, lieutenant-governor of Indiana, has kept bachelor quarters in his suite of law offices for years and ate at the Windsor hotel. He was never known to coldly turn down the request of a friend or foe.

ASSIGNMENT OF TABLE FACTORY

Warfield & Wilson Made a Voluntary Assignment Today—Causes a Surprise.

HAVE BEEN LOSING MONEY

Business Depression of Last Year Injured Their Business—Albert Winship Named as Trustee.

Quite a surprise was sprung in business circles today when it became known that the Warfield & Wilson table factory had made an assignment. The assets of the firm are approximately $24,000, and the liabilities from $13,000 to $14,000. The assignment was made voluntarily on the part of the firm after an unsuccessful effort was made to ride an adverse tide of business depression and financial difficulty. The owners of the factory are Taylor Warfield, Robert E. Wilson and Henry McRoberts. Albert L. Winship, former county auditor, was named as trustee for the voluntary assignment and Watson, Titsworth & Green are looking after the legal end of the transaction.

For a number of months the factory has been running at a loss and it is estimated that they lost between three and four thousand dollars within the past year. During the financial flurry of last year the firm suffered greatly as their business is done in a territory that covers a wide area. Their chief product is the manufacture of tables and as merchants throughout the country did not buy heavy last year, but reduced their stock as much as possible, the smaller factories were in turn, bound to feel it and suffer thereby.

Trustee Winship said today that the firm was in a fairly good shape and that for the present they would continue in the manufacture of the tables, at least until all the stock in the process of manufacture is assembled. However, it is doubtful if the affairs of the concern cannot ever be straightened up to such a point where everything will be put in good running order again, and it is likely that the plant will be finally disposed of. Quite a large number are employed in the factory and Rushville will feel the loss of the enterprise.

CONTEST MAY BE DROPPED TODAY

Defeated Candidates In Indiana Holding Conference.

REALIZE THEIR DIFFICULTIES

With Few Exceptions the Defeated

Democratic Candidates in Recent Indiana State Election See the Futility of the Design to Wrest Offices From Present Incumbents—A Conference Is Being Held This Afternoon at Which Decision to Drop the Whole Thing May Be Reached.

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—Whether or not the defeated Democratic candidates on the state ticket will make a contest for their offices, will be determined at a meeting between them and members of the state committee this afternoon. The outlook today is that most of the candidates and members of the organization are favorable to dropping the project. Alvin Padgett, Second district chairman, and other leaders, argued that it would be futile to contest under the present election laws and with the Republicans already in possession of the offices. With the law providing for a committee of seven from each branch of the legislature and with the foreknowledge that the Republicans have fixed up a senate committee that will decide in favor of them, it was pointed out that the chances of Democratic success would be less than one in a hundred. Burt New, candidate for reporter of the supreme court, is not in favor of going ahead with the contest. It was said today, however, that John Isenbarger, candidate for treasurer, and Marion Bailey, candidate for state auditor, want to proceed. It was reported that the corrected returns show that Bailey was defeated by a plurality of 16. James Cox, candidate for secretary of state, said he is willing to abide by the will of his associates.

Governor Encourages Contest.

Chairman Jackson, Cox and Peter Foley, Fifth district chairman, called on Governor Marshall late yesterday afternoon. What passed between them is unknown, but it is said that Governor Marshall was inclined to encourage the candidates to go ahead. Chairman Jackson said he would have no announcement to make until after the meeting this afternoon.

The situation was discussed today from all angles. It was admitted that even if the legislature should decide in favor of the Democrats, the Republicans would not yield without a court decision against them, and that more than likely the Democrats would be compelled to stand for the costs of a recount of the contested ballots of every precinct in Indiana. This would consume at least a year and cost thousands of dollars. It was said that if the contest is filed the only object will be to show the alleged frauds in Lake and some other counties in which the Democrats contend thousands of foreigners were voted illegally by the Republicans.

Speaker Prods Committees.

Both branches of the legislature met at the usual hour today, but very little is being done beyond the introduction of bills. At this time the house has 168 bills which have been assigned to committees. A total of 171 bills have been introduced, three of which have been passed, and about as many more reported out of committee for passage. Speaker Hoan has repeatedly urged upon the members of the house that it was time to get bills out of committee if the house were to accomplish results.

A number of committees have not even met for the first time, and others on meeting have merely organized and set another date. So far the only committees that seemed to have gripped the work in hand are the judiciary, the ways and means, the drains and dykes, cities and towns, Rights and Privileges and the committee on morals.

The older members of the legislature do not regard this as a very good showing for two weeks. The inauguration of a governor, however, and the election of a senator are given as causes for the poor showing of the committees. Added to this is the fact that the members feel that now, while constituents are watching, is the time to introduce bills.

OUR NATION CAN SAVE ITSELF

President's Message Proclaims Need of Conserving Coun- try's Resources.

REPORT OF NATIONAL CONSERVATION COMMISSION

In Sending It to Congress Executive Declares Facts Contained in Document Constitute an Imperative Call to Action—"Permanent Welfare of Our People Cannot Exist Save on a Firm Foundation of Material Well Being"—He Defends General Course of His Administration.

Washington, Jan. 22.—President Roosevelt sent to congress today a message transmitting the report of the national conservation commission. He prefaces the report with his own comment, stating in vigorous terms his conviction that immediate action is needed if the rightful heritage of posterity in natural resources is to be preserved.

The message says:
To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a report of the national conservation commission, together with the accompanying papers.
This report, which is the outgrowth of the conference of governors last May, was unanimously approved by the recent joint conference held in this city between the national conservation commission and governors of states, state conservation commissions and conservation committees of great organizations of citizens. It is therefore in a peculiar sense representative of the whole nation and all its parts.

With the statements and conclusions of this report I heartily concur, and I commend it to the thoughtful consideration both of the congress and of our people generally. It is one of the most fundamentally important documents ever laid before the American people.
It contains the first inventory of its natural resources ever made by any nation. In condensed form it presents a statement of our available capital in material resources, which are the means of progress, and calls attention to the essential conditions upon which the perpetuity, safety and welfare of this nation now rest and must always continue to rest. It deserves and should have the widest possible distribution among the people.

The facts set forth in this report constitute an imperative call to action.
The situation they disclose demands that we neglect for a time, if need be, smaller and less vital questions, shall concentrate an effective part of our attention upon the great material foundations of national existence, progress and prosperity.

Immediate Action Needed.

This first inventory of natural resources prepared by the national conservation commission is undoubtedly but the beginning of a series which will be indispensable for dealing intelligently with what we have. It supplies as close an approximation to the actual facts as it was possible to prepare with the knowledge and time available. The progress of our knowledge of this country will continually lead to more accurate information and better use of the sources of national strength. But we cannot defer action until complete accuracy in the estimates can be reached, because before that time many of our resources will be practically gone. It is not necessary that this inventory should be exact in every minute detail. It is essential that it should correctly describe the general situation and that the present inventory does. As it stands it is an irrefutable proof that the conservation of our resources is the fundamental question before this nation and that our first and greatest task is to set our house in order and begin to live within our means.

The first of all considerations is the permanent welfare of our people, and true moral welfare, the highest form of welfare, cannot permanently exist save on a firm and lasting foundation of material well being. In this respect our situation is far from satisfactory. After every possible allowance has been made and when every hopeful indication has been given its full weight the facts still give reason for grave concern. It would be unworthy of our history and our intelligence and disastrous to our future to shut our eyes to these facts or attempt to laugh them out of court. The people should and will rightly demand that the great fundamental questions shall be given attention by their representatives. I do not advise hasty or ill considered action on disputed points, but I do urge, where the facts are known, where the public interest is clear, that neither indifference nor inertia nor adverse private interests shall be allowed to stand in the way of the public good.

Our Responsibility for the Future.

The great basic facts are already well known. We know that our population is now adding about one-fifth to its numbers in ten years and that by the middle of the present century perhaps 150,000,000 Americans and by its end very many millions more must be fed and clothed from the products of our soil. With the steady growth in population and the still more rapid increase in consumption our people will hereafter make greater and not less demands per capita upon all the natural resources for their livelihood, comfort and convenience. It is high time to realize that our responsibility to the coming millions is like that of parents to their children and that in wasting our resources we are wronging our descendants.

We know now that our rivers can and should be made to serve our people effectively in transportation, but that the vast expenditures for our waterways have not resulted in maintaining, much less in promoting, inland navigation. Therefore let us take immediate steps to ascertain the reasons and to prepare and adopt a comprehensive plan for inland waterway navigation that will result in giving the people the benefits for which they have paid, but which they have not yet received. We know now that our forests are fast disappearing, that less than one-fifth of them are being conserved and that no good purpose can be met by failing to provide the relatively small sums needed for the protection, use and improvement of all forests still owned by the government and to enact laws to check the wasteful destruction of the forests in private hands. There are differences of opinion as to many public questions, but the American people stand nearly as a unit for waterway development and for forest protection.

We know now that our mineral resources, once exhausted, are gone forever and that the needless waste of them costs us hundreds of human lives and nearly $300,000,000 a year. Therefore let us undertake without delay the investigations necessary before our people will be in position through state action or otherwise to put an end to this huge loss and waste and conserve both our mineral resources and the lives of the men who take them from the earth.

I desire to make grateful acknowledgment to the men both in and out of the government service who have prepared the first inventory of our natural resources. They have made it possible for this nation to take a great step forward. Their work is helping us to see that the greatest questions before us are not partisan questions, but questions upon which men of all parties and all shades of opinion may be united for the common good. Among such questions, on the material side, the conservation of natural resources stands first. It is the bottom round of the ladder on our upward progress toward a condition in which the nation as a whole and its citizens as individuals will set national efficiency and the public welfare before personal profit.

Industrial Democracy in Danger.

The policy of conservation is perhaps the most typical example of the general policies which this government has made peculiarly its own during the opening years of the present century.
The function of our government is to insure to all its citizens now and hereafter their rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. If we of this generation destroy the resources from which our children would otherwise derive their livelihood we reduce the capacity of our land to support a population and so either degrade the standard of living or deprive the coming generations of their right to life on this continent. If we allow great industrial organizations to exercise unregulated control of the means of production and the necessities of life we deprive the Americans of today and of the future of industrial liberty, a right no less precious and vital than political freedom. Industrial liberty was a fruit of political liberty and in turn has become one of its chief supports, and exactly as we stand for political democracy so we must stand for industrial democracy.

The rights to life and liberty are fundamental, and, like other fundamental necessities, when once acquired they are little dwelt upon. The right to the pursuit of happiness is the right whose presence or absence is most likely to be felt in daily life. In whatever it has accomplished or failed to accomplish, the administration which is just drawing to a close has at least seen clearly the fundamental need of freedom of opportunity for every citizen. We have realized that the right of every man to live his own life, provide for his family and endeavor, according to his abilities, to secure for himself and for them a fair share of the good things of existence should be subject to one limitation and to no other. The freedom of the individual should be limited only by the present and future rights, interests and needs of the other individuals who make up the community. We should do all in our power to develop and protect individual liberty, individual initiative, but subject always to the need of preserving and promoting the general good.
When necessary the private right must yield, under due process of law and with proper compensation, to the welfare of the commonwealth. The man who serves the community greatly should be greatly rewarded by the community. As there is great inequality of service, so there must be great inequality of reward, but no man and no set of men should be allowed to play the game of competition with loaded dice.

All this is simply good common sense.
The underlying principle of conservation has been described as the application of common sense to common problems for the common good. If the description is correct, then conservation is the great fundamental basis for national efficiency. In this stage of the world's history to be fearless, to be just and to be efficient are the three great requirements of national life.

Administration's Aims Defended.

This administration has achieved some things. It has sought, but has not been able, to achieve others. It has doubtless made mistakes, but all it has done or attempted has been in the single, consistent effort to secure and enlarge the rights and opportunities of the men and women of the United States. We are trying to conserve what is good in our social system, and we are striving toward this end when we endeavor to do away with what is bad. Success may be made too hard for some if it is made too easy for others. The rewards of common industry and thrift may be too small if the rewards for other and on the whole less valuable qualities are made too large, and especially if the rewards for qualities which are really, from the public standpoint, undesirable are permitted to become too large.

The unchecked existence of monopoly is incompatible with equality of opportunity. The reason for the exercise of government control over great monopolies is to equalize opportunity.
We are fighting against privilege. It was made unlawful for corporations to contribute money for election expenses in order to abridge the power of special privilege at the polls. Railroad rate control is an attempt to secure an equality of opportunity for all men affected by rail transportation, and that means all of us. The great anthracite coal strike was settled and the pressing danger of a coal famine averted because we recognized that the control of a public necessity involves a duty to the people and that public intervention in the affairs of a public service corporation is neither to be resented as usurpation nor permitted as a privilege by the corporations, but, on the contrary, to be accepted as a duty and exercised as a right by the government in the interest of all the people. The efficiency of the army and the navy has been increased so that our people may follow in peace the great work of making this country a better place for Americans to live in, and our navy was sent round the world for the same ultimate purpose. All the acts taken by the government during the last seven years and all the policies now being pursued by the government fit in as parts of a consistent whole.

Measures for Country's Good.

Our public land policy has for its aim the use of the public land so that it will promote local development by the settlement of homesteaders. The policy we champion is to serve all the people legitimately and openly, instead of permitting the lands to be converted, illegitimately and under cover, to the private benefit of a few. Our forest policy was established so that we might use the public forests for the permanent public good. Instead of merely for temporary private gain.
The reclamation act, under which the desert parts of the public domain are converted to higher uses for the general benefit, was passed so that more Americans might have homes on the land.

These policies were enacted into law and have justified their enactment.
Others have failed so far to reach the point of action. Among such is the attempt to secure public control of the open range and thus to convert its benefits to the use of the small man, who is the homemaker, instead of allowing it to be controlled by a few great cattle and sheep owners.

The enactment of a pure food law was a recognition of the fact that the public welfare outweighs the right to private gain and that no man may poison the people for his private profit. The employers' liability bill recognized the controlling fact that, while the employer usually has at stake no more than his profit, the stake of the employee is a living for himself and his family.

For the Benefit of the People.

We are building the Panama canal, and this means that we are engaged in the giant engineering feat of all time. We are striving to add in all ways to the habitability and beauty of our country. We are striving to hold in the public hands the remaining supply of unappropriated coal for the protection and benefit of all the people.
We have taken the first steps toward the conservation of our natural resources and the betterment of our waterways. We stand for the right of every child to a childhood free from grinding toil and to an education, for the civic responsibility and decency of every citizen, for prudent foresight in public matters and for fair play in every relation of our national and economic life. In international matters we apply a system of diplomacy which puts the obligations of international morality on a level with those that govern the actions of an honest gentleman in dealing with his fellow men.
Within our own border we stand for truth and honesty in public and in private life, and we war sternly against wrongdoers of every grade.

The obligations and not the rights of citizenship increase in proportion to the increase of a man's wealth or power. The time is coming when a man will be judged not by what he has succeeded in getting for himself from the common store, but by how well he has done his duty as a citizen and by what the ordinary citizen has gained in freedom of opportunity because of his service for the common good. The highest value we know is that of the individual citizen, and the highest justice is to give him fair play in the effort to realize the best there is in him.

Common Sense Needed.

The tasks this nation has to do are great tasks. They can only be done at all by our citizens acting together, and they can be done best of all by the direct and simple application of homely common sense.

The national conservation commission wisely confined its report to the statement of facts and principles, leaving the executive to recommend the specific steps to which these facts and principles inevitably lead. Accordingly I call your attention to some of the larger features of the situation disclosed by the report and to the action thereby clearly demanded for the general good.

Waters.

The report says:
Within recent months it has been recognized and demanded by the people, through many thousand delegates from all states assembled in convention in different sections of the country, that the waterways should and must be improved promptly and effectively as a means of maintaining national prosperity.

The first requisite for waterway improvement is the control of the waters in such manner as to reduce floods and regulate the regimen of the navigable rivers. The second requisite is development of terminals and connections in such manner as to regulate commerce.

Accordingly I urge that the broad plan for the development of our waterways, recommended by the inland waterways commission, be put in effect without delay. It provides for a comprehensive system of waterway improvement extending to all the uses of the waters and benefits to be derived from their control, including navigation, the development of power, the extension of irrigation, the drainage of swamp and overflow lands, the prevention of soil wash and the purification of streams for water supply. It proposes to carry out the work by coordinating agencies in the federal departments through the medium of an administrative commission or board, acting in co-operation with the states and other organizations and individual citizens.

The work of waterway development should be undertaken without delay.
Meritorious projects in known conformity with the general outlines of any comprehensive plan should proceed at once. The cost of the whole work should be met by direct appropriation if possible, but if necessary by the issue of bonds in small denominations.

It is especially important that the development of water power should be guarded with the utmost care both by the national government and by the states in order to protect the people against the upgrowth of monopoly and to insure to them a fair share in the benefits which will follow the development of this great asset, which belongs to the people and should be controlled by them.

Forests.

I urge that provision be made for both protection and more rapid development of the national forests. Otherwise, either the increasing use of these forests by the people must be checked or their protection against fire must be dangerously weakened. If we compare the actual fire damage on similar areas on private and national forest lands during the past year, the government fire patrol saved commercial timber worth as much as the total cost of caring for all national forests at the present rate for about ten years.

I especially commend to the congress the facts presented by the commission as to the relation between forests and stream flow in its bearing upon the importance of the forest lands in national ownership. Without an understanding of this intimate relation the conservation of both these natural resources must largely fail.

The time has fully arrived for recognizing in the law the responsibility to the community, the state and the nation which rests upon the private owners of private lands. The ownership of forest land is a public trust. The man who would so handle his forest as to cause erosion and to injure stream flow must be not only educated, but he must be controlled.

The report of the national conservation commission says:

Forests in private ownership cannot be conserved unless they are protected from fire. We need good fire laws, well enforced. Fire control is impossible without an adequate force of men whose sole duty is fire patrol during the dangerous season.

I hold as first among the tasks before the states and the nation in their respective shares in forest conservation the organization of efficient fire patrols and the enactment of good fire laws on the part of the states.

The report says further:

Present tax laws prevent reforestation of cut over land and the perpetuation of existing forests by use. An annual tax upon the land itself, exclusive of the timber, and a tax upon the timber when cut is well adapted to actual conditions of forest investment and is practicable and certain. It is far better that forest land should pay a moderate tax permanently than that it should pay an excessive revenue temporarily and then cease to yield at all.

Second only in importance to good fire laws well enforced is the enactment of tax laws which will permit the perpetuation of existing forests by use.

Lands.

With our increasing population the time is not far distant when the problem of supplying our people with food will become pressing. The possible additions to our arable area are not great, and it will become necessary to obtain much larger crops from the land, as is now done in more densely settled countries. To do this we need better farm practice and better strains of wheat, corn and other crop plants, with a reduction in losses from soil erosion and from insects, animals and other enemies of agriculture. The United States department of agriculture is doing excellent work in these directions, and it should be liberally supported.

The remaining public lands should be classified and the arable lands disposed of to homesteaders. In their interest the timber and stone act and the commutation clause of the homestead act should be repealed, and the desert land law should be modified in accordance with the recommendations of the public lands commission.

The use of the public grazing lands should be regulated in such ways as to improve and conserve their value.

Rights to the surface of the public land should be separated from rights to forests upon it and to minerals beneath it, and these should be subject to separate disposal.

The coal, oil, gas and phosphate rights still remaining with the government should be withdrawn from entry and leased under conditions favorable for economic development.

Minerals.

The accompanying reports show that the consumption of nearly all of our mineral products is increasing more rapidly than our population. Our mineral waste is about one-sixth of our product, or nearly $1,000,000 for each working day in the year. The loss of structural materials through fire is about another million a day. The loss of life in the mines is appalling. The larger part of these losses of life and property can be avoided.

Our mineral resources are limited in quantity and cannot be increased or reproduced. With the rapidly increasing rate of consumption the supply will be exhausted while yet the nation is in its infancy unless better methods are devised or substitutes are found. Further investigation is urgently needed in order to improve methods and to develop and apply substitutes.

It is of the utmost importance that a bureau of mines be established in accordance with the pending bill to reduce the loss of life in mines and the waste of mineral resources and to investigate the methods and substitutes for prolonging the duration of our mineral supplies. Both the need and the public demand for such a bureau are rapidly becoming more urgent. It should co-operate with the states in supplying data to serve as a basis for state mine regulations. The establishment of this bureau will mean largely the transfer from other bureaus of work which it is agreed should be transferred and slightly enlarged and reorganized for these purposes.

Conclusions.

The joint conference already mentioned adopted two resolutions to which I call your special attention.
The first was intended to promote cooperation between the states and the nation upon all of the great questions here discussed. It is as follows:

Resolved, That a joint committee be appointed by the chairman, to consist of six members of state conservation commissions and three members of the national conservation commission, whose duty it shall be to prepare and present to the state and national commissions and through them to the governors and the president a plan for united action by all organizations concerned with the conservation of natural resources. (On motion of Governor Noel of Mississippi the chairman and secretary of the conference were added to and constituted a part of this committee.)

The second resolution of the joint conference to which I refer calls upon the congress to provide the means for such co-operation. The principle of the community of interest among all our people in the great natural resources runs through the report of the national conservation commission and the proceedings of the joint conference. These resources, which form the common basis of our welfare, can be wisely developed, rightly used and prudently conserved only by the common action of all the people, acting through their representatives in state and nation; hence the fundamental necessity for co-operation. Without it we shall accomplish but little, and that little badly. The resolution follows:

We also especially urge on the congress of the United States the high desirability of maintaining a national commission on the conservation of the resources of the country, empowered to co-operate with state commissions to the end that every sovereign commonwealth and every section of the country may attain the high degree of prosperity and the sureness of perpetuity naturally arising in the abundant resources and the vigor, intelligence and patriotism of our people.

In this recommendation I most heartily concur, and I urge that an appropriation of at least $50,000 be made to cover the expenses of the national conservation commission for necessary rent, assistance and traveling expenses.
This is a very small sum. I know of no other way in which the appropriation of so small a sum would result in so large a benefit to the whole nation. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

EDITORS IN TROUBLE

Things About Secret Service.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—Fines ranging from $150 to $500 have been imposed upon St. Petersburg journals for publishing articles based on statement in foreign newspapers to the effect that agents of the Russian police had participated in terroristic crimes.
Five of the opposition newspapers have been fined also for having reprinted the sensational revelations made in Paris that Azef, one of the foremost leaders of the Russian revolutionists, had been unmasked as a government agent.

Suicide of a Farmer.

Shelbyville, Ind., Jan. 22.—Milton Booher, a farmer living in Marion township, shot himself with a revolver. He had been in this city on business, and when he returned home he put his horse up. He then went to the house, got his revolver and returned to the barn. He was found dead by his daughter two hours later.
Financial troubles was the cause. He was fifty-eight years old and leaves a widow and four children.

Grant's Chief Dispatcher.

Mattoon, Ill., Jan. 22.—Thomas Daugherty, who was chief dispatcher to General Grant during the civil war, is dead at his home in Trowbridge, Shelby county. He was born in Ireland, seventy-three years ago.

REGULAR FIRE BOAT LACKING

Investigation of Water Works Disaster

Reveals That No Provision Had Been Made Against Such an Emergency as That Which Arose When Fire Licked Up the Wooden Structure of the Crib—Further Inquiry Develops That Victims of Fire and Water Trap May Number Seventy or More.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—That the list of fifty known dead probably will be increased to seventy or even more was the chief fact developed in the official investigation of the burning of the temporary wooden crib in the lake one and one-half miles off the shore of South Chicago on Wednesday. It was discovered that most of the workmen had died at the mouth of the shaft and that, surrounded by fire and with a wide stretch of icy water between them and the shore they sought but failed to reach safety by going down into the submarine tunnel. The shaft was investigated to a depth of 165 feet, but no more bodies were found. It is believed, however, that bodies will be found further on and also in the lake.
The officials of the construction company which built the crib, in explanation as to why the structure was made of wood instead of steel, said that all temporary structures of the kind were of wood. Although a boat plied between the crib and the shore, no regular fireboat was provided for an emergency, it was said.

Thinking that as the fire occurred in the lake, the fixing of responsibility for it might be under federal jurisdiction, the city engineer wired to Washington for instruction on that point.
Major J. B. Cavanaugh of the rivers and harbors bureau replied that the government assumed jurisdiction only when traffic was interfered with.

As it will be impossible to identify more than a few of the dead, it has been decided to hold a single funeral for all of them. The burial will be at the same cemetery and probably a single tombstone commemorating the tragedy will serve for all.

that the matter would become the subject of further investigation.

Then He Killed Himself.

Galva, Ill., Jan. 22.—Alvin Boline, aged twenty-six, of Ottawa, Ill., after an ineffectual attempt to perfect a reconciliation with his wife, from whom he had been parted for some time, entered the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Swanson, where his wife resided here, shot his wife through the shoulder, fatally injured Mrs. Swanson and then shot himself, dying instantly. The wife will live.

Senate Continues Generous.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A debate on the propriety of increasing salaries of federal circuit and district judges consumed nearly the entire time of the senate, with the result that the compensation of the twenty-nine circuit judges was increased from $7,000 to $9,000 and that of the eighty-four district judges from $6,000 to $8,000. The house continued consideration of the naval appropriation bill.

Mr. Cheney's Successor.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of Sturt K. Lupton of Tennessee to be consul at Messina, Italy, vice Consul Arthur Cheney, who was killed in the recent earthquake. Lupton was also at Messina, acting as deputy consul.

INDIANA POLITICS

By Robert G. Tucker.

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—The senate committee on county and township business submitted its first report at this morning's session. Senator Grube's bill providing for a graded inheritance tax was reported unfavorably, the committee holding that all revenue bills must originate in the house. The committee reported favorably on Senator King's bill providing for the deduction of the amounts of mortgages on real estate from taxation and on Senator Stotsenburg's measure creating a half holiday for public offices on Saturday from June until September. Senator Ranke's bill amending the public depositories law so the surplus as well as the capital stock of a bank shall be taken into consideration in the designation of depositories was reported favorably. Senator Higgins's measure giving the township trustees authority to intercede in disputes over meandering property lines was also reported favorably.

For the purpose of establishing a line between beer and "near beer," Representative Wells has introduced a bill which some regard as a cross between a temperance measure and a scheme to permit the brewers to enter "dry" territory with a drink sufficient to intoxicate to make good with thirsty folk. During the last year "near beer" has been sold in some of the dry counties, causing a conflict between the anti-saloon and "liberal" elements. Suits have been brought to determine whether or not "near beer" came under the anti-saloon laws. Some courts have held that "near beer" was practically the same as real beer, and therefore could not be sold in dry territory. Other courts have decided that it is a non-alcoholic beverage. Representative Wells's bill would establish the standard definitely and the health officers and police would have to do the rest. It was referred to the committee on public morals. H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, said that such a law is needed to settle the dispute about "near beer," but that it would give the manufacturers of such liquors an opportunity to slip real beer into dry counties. He thinks some kind of a law ought to be enacted that will settle the question.

Representative Wells and Senator Wood have introduced an insurance bill which provides that a company shall have its license revoked if it gives rebates. An agent may also have his license revoked for the same reason. Authority is placed in the hands of the auditor of state to carry out the provisions of the law. Representative Garrard of Vincennes has introduced a bill providing for a public utilities commission and one for uniform text-books for high schools. He would change the law so that the local educational boards and not the state board shall let the contracts for books. Representative Murphy of Crawfordsville has presented a bill to compel boards and bucket shops to return money lost in gambling through them.

Senator-elect Shively and family left here yesterday afternoon for their home in South Bend. Mr. Shively is run down physically from the contest he has just finished, and he proposes to rest for three or four weeks. He has accepted an engagement to speak Monday night at the banquet to be given by the St. Andrew society of Gary in honor of the anniversary of Robert Burns. He has no other engagements.

Between thirty and forty members of the legislature went to Anderson last night on a special car to attend a dinner given in their honor by the Anderson Commercial club. The latter arranged for a discussion of the proposed law for uniform system of public accounting and asked the members of the legislature to attend and express their views.

PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor Republican

What do people generally think of an inheritance tax law as is now presented before the legislature of the State of Indiana? Is it right, that after a man has paid his just demands is assessed against him in the way of taxation all his life for the State of Indiana to step in and say "He is dead now, we will take one more pull at him" then take a certain per cent of his estate. What do citizens of Rush county think about it?

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN HUME.

ON "RIDE ON WATER WAGON"

Capt. Clinton N. Howard, "The Little Giant," lecturer, traveler, and reformer of Rochester, N. Y., will address the Men's Big Meeting here on Sunday, February 21. Capt. Howard comes very highly recommended as a reformer without a precedent and the press notices describe him as a "moral earthquake." His subject, "Ride on the Water Wagon" will be a very timely one.

COME WITH HIGHLY ENVIABLE RECORD

Does Morristown High School Five Who Will Play Local Quintet Tonight.

IN GRAHAM SCHOOL BUILDING

The fast basket ball aggregation from Morristown will play the Rushville high school five in the gymnasium of the Graham school building tonight. The boys from over west come with a highly touted record and the local bunch is going into the game with the expectation of taking some of the "starch" out of them. They have not been defeated but once in two years and expect to turn the trick again tonight.

The varsity game will be supplemented by a contest between the Freshmen and Sophomore classes of the high school and the big event will be pulled off promptly at 8 o'clock.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

During the recent smallpox scare here a rather funny incident occurred. A local stockbuyer made a deal over the phone with a farmer living south of this city for the purchase of a number of hogs. The stockman quoted the price which was in turn satisfactory to the farmer and the latter was instructed to bring the porkers to the freight depot on the following morning, where they would be weighed.

"If I have to do that," said the farmer, "you and I can't dicker, and the deal is all off."

"What's the matter?" inquired the drover.

"A'feered of smallpox," he returned.

"Ah! all bosh. Hain't no danger a'tall," he was assured.

But do you think he could be made to believe that? No sirc! He finally agreed to bring the hogs as far as the city limits. The stockman was there to meet him. As soon as he came within sight of the race bridge and saw the stockman standing there waiting for him, the farmer feeling that he had fulfilled his part of the agreement, quickly whirled and broke into a run, homeward bound.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

(Shelbyville Republican.)

James Rogers of Boggsstown, who was arrested almost a year ago on a grand jury warrant charging him with playing poker in a box car one Sunday with Abe Swango of the same place, was before Judge Sparks this morning to answer to the charge. To properly prepare himself for trial, Rogers came to town early this morning and it is said that he was "feeling pretty good" when he entered the court room.

"Is there anyone here to represent Rogers?" was the question asked by Judge Sparks.

"Present," shouted Rogers.

"What have you got to say to the charge against you, Rogers?" was the next question put at the man by the judge.

"I'll stand pat," came the reply.

The matter ended for the present by the case being postponed as Rogers wanted to get some one to defend him.

(New Castle Courier.)

Laughable incidents are always seen at every fire in every panic and in every epidemic. There is nothing ever so serious but what there is a laugh coming for some one. This was demonstrated at noon on South 17th street. A certain well known farmer residing south of this city, who takes no interest in his county seat and reads no paper because "they never tell the truth" came to town about noon. He was driving a big bob-sled and was on 17th street headed north to Broad. It was necessary for him to pull out to the side of the road to get around the sentry box or guard house erected near the West residence, which is under quarantine. The farmer stopped opposite the guard house and the following was heard:

"What's the matter here?"

"Nothing."

"Well, why are you stationed here armed with a shotgun?"

"Just to guard the people in that house."

"What's the matter with them?"

"Nothing as yet, only they've been exposed to smallpox," was the reply. "Giddap Kit, go on Moll," and with a crack of the whip the bobsled went north like a streak of greased lightning.

When last seen the team and bobsled were still going and the farmer was gripping the lines like grim death. He was needlessly panic-stricken but didn't know it.

MAY DIMINISH POST CARD SALE

Postmaster McFarlan Has Received Orders in Regard to Tinselled Cards.

MUST BE TIGHTLY SEALED

Postmaster Ben L. McFarlan has received an order from the Postmaster General, which may to a certain extent diminish the souvenir post card business in Rushville. The contents of the order are that post cards bearing particles of glass, metal, mica, sand, tinsel or other similar substances are unmailable, except when enclosed in envelopes tightly sealed to prevent the escape of such particles, or when treated in such way as will prevent the objectionable substance from being rubbed off or injuring persons handling the mails. If persons do not conform to the above regulations the cards will be sent to the dead letter office and destroyed.

This reform in the postal service has been expected for several months as the cards described are injurious to stamping machines. Two mail carriers have died of blood poisoning in the last year as the result of handling the cards mentioned above.

A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

THE WARS OF PEACE.

"BIG BILL" LANGDON was the term by which the new senator from Mississippi had been affectionately known to his intimates for years. He carried his 230 pounds with ease, bespeaking great muscular power in spite of his gray hairs. His rugged courage, unswerving honesty and ready belief in his friends won him a loyal following, some of whom frequently repeated what was known as "Bill Langdon's Golden Rule."

"There never was a man yet who didn't have some good in him, but most folks don't know this because their own virtues pop up and blind 'em when they look at somebody else."

At the reunions of his old war comrades Langdon was always depended on to describe once again how the Third Mississippi charged at Crawfordsville and defeated the Eighth Illinois. But the stirring events of the past had served to increase the planter's fondness for his home life and his children, whose mother had died years before. At times he regretted that his unexpected political duties would take him away from the old plantation even though the enthusiastic approval of Carolina and Hope Georgia proved considerable compensation.

Although not sworn in as senator, Colonel Langdon's political duties were already pressing. A few days after Congressman Norton's visit he sat in his library conferring with several prominent citizens of his county regarding a plan to ask congress to appropriate money to dredge a portion of the channel of the Pearl river, which would greatly aid a large section of the state.

During the deliberations the name of Martin Sanders was announced by Jackson, the colonel's gravely decorous negro bodyguard, who boasted that he "wuz brung up by Cunei Marse Langdon, sub, a fightin' Mississippi cunei, sub, gence long befo' de wah and way befo' dat, sub."

"Show Mr. Sanders right in," commanded Colonel Langdon.

"Good day, senator," spoke Sanders, the boss of seven counties, as he entered. Glancing around the room, he continued, bending toward the colonel and muffling his now whispering voice with his hand: "I want to speak to you alone. I'm here on politics."

"That's all right, but these gentlemen here are my friends and constituents," was the reply in no uncertain voice. "When I talk politics they have a perfect right to hear what I, as their senator, say. Out with it, Mr. Sanders."

As Sanders was introduced to the members of the conference he grew red in the face and stared at Langdon

CATARRH MUST GO
And Hawking, Spitting, Snuffles Must Go Too.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) will give the sufferer from catarrh joyful relief in five minutes.

It is such a remarkable cure, and so positive in its action, that F. B. Johnson & Co., goes so far as to guarantee it to cure catarrh or money back.

A complete outfit, which consists of a hard rubber pocket inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and a unique dispenser for filling the inhaler, only cost one dollar, and if an extra bottle is afterwards needed the price is only 50 cents.

Hyomei is a healing, antiseptic balsam, taken from the mighty eucalyptus trees in the health-giving forests of Australia, where disease of the respiratory tract are unknown.

All sufferer has to do is to inhale the antiseptic air of Hyomei over the inflamed parts where the germs are entrenched, three or four times a day.

It cures coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever and croup without stomach dosing.

amazed. At last he had discovered something new in politics. "Say," he finally blurted, "when I talk business I"

"Are you in politics as a business?" quickly spoke Colonel Langdon.

"Why—I—er—no, of course not," the visitor stammered. "I am in politics for my party's sake, just like everybody else," and Sanders grinned suggestively at his questioner.

"Have you anything further to say?" asked Langdon in a tone hinting that he would like to be rid of his caller.

"Well, since you are so very new in this game, senator, I'll talk right out in meetin', as they call it. I came to ask about an appointment an' to tip you off on a couple o' propositions. I want Jim Hagley taken care of—you've heard of Jim—was clerk o' Fenimore county. A $2,000 a year job 'll do for him; $500 o' that he gives to the organization."

"You're the organization, aren't you?" queried Langdon.

"Why, yes. Are you just gettin' wise?" cried Sanders. "Haven't I got fellers, voters, VOTERS, VOTERS, d— it, hangin' on to me that needs to be taken care of! An' so I make the fellers that work help those that don't. Why, Langdon, what 'n h— are you kickin' an' questionin' about? Didn't you get my twelve votes in the legislature? Did you have a chance for senator without 'em? Answer me that, will you? Why, with 'em you only had two more than needed to elect, an' the opposition crowd was sold for Wilson," cried the angry boss, pounding the long table before which Langdon sat.

"I'll answer you almighty quick," retorted the now thoroughly aroused senator elect, rising and shaking his clinched fist at Sanders. "Those twelve votes you say were yours—yours?"

"Yes, mine. Them noble legislators that cast 'em was an' is mine, mine, I tell you, jest like I had 'em in my pocket, an' that's where I mostly carry 'em, so as they won't go strayin' aroun' careless-like."

"You didn't have to vote those men for me. I told you at the capitol that I would not make you or anybody else any promises. You voted them for me of your own accord. That's my answer."

"Them noble legislators was mine," gentlemen of the county present when Sanders entered and who had no desire to witness further the unpleasant episode rose to leave, in spite of the urgent request of Colonel Langdon that they remain. The only one reluctant to go was Deacon Amos Smallwood, who, coming to the plantation to seek employment for his son, had not been denied of his desire to join the assemblage of his neighbors.

Last to move toward the door, he stopped in front of Sanders, stretched his five feet three inches of stature on tiptoe and shook a withered fist in the boss' firmly set, determined face.

"Infamous!" shrieked the deacon. "You're a monster! You're unrighteous! You should have belonged to the political machine of Cataline or Pontius Pilate!"

"Never heard tell o' them," muttered Sanders, deeply puzzled. "Guess they was never in Mississippi in my time."

His accompanying gesture of perplexity caused the deacon to hasten his exit. Tripping over the leg of a chair, he fell headlong into the arms of the watchful Jackson, who received the deacon's blessing for "upliftin' the righteous in the hour of their fall."

resses, Sanders showed increased aggressiveness. "To be sure, senator, you were careful not to personally promise me anything for my support at the election, as you say," the leader sneered, "but you had Jim Stevens to make promises for you, which was smooth, absolute an' artistic smooth."

"Stop, sir!" Langdon furiously shouted. "You forget, sir, that your insinuation is an insult to a man elected senator from Mississippi, an insult to my state and to my friend Senator Stevens, who I know would make you no promises for me, for he had not my authority."

"Certainly you're a senator, but what's a senator anyhow? I'll tell you. Mr. Colonel Langdon, a senator is a man who holds out for his own pocket as much as us fellows that make him will stand for. When we don't get our rightful share, he's through."

With a sudden start, as though to spring at Sanders' throat, Langdon, with compressed lips and eyes blazing, grasped the edge of the table with a grip that threatened to rend the polished boards. With intensest effort he slowly regained control of himself. His fury had actually weakened him. His knees shook, and he sank weakly into a chair. When he finally spoke his voice was strained and laborious. "Sanders, you and I,

Carolina Langdon had an austere love-ness. sir, must never meet again because I might not succeed again in keeping my hands off you. What would my old comrades of the Third Mississippi say if they saw me sitting here and you there with a whole body, sir, after what you have said? They would not believe their eyes, thank God, sir. They would all go over to Stuart City and buy new eyeglasses, sir." A suspicious moisture appeared on the colonel's cheeks which he could not dry too quickly to escape Sanders' observation.

A GOOD REASON

Rushville People Can Tell You Why it is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Rushville people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. B. W. Reynolds, 620 West Fifth street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I had a constant backache that robbed me of energy. Frequent headaches added to my discomfort and I was always tired as I could not rest at night. Although I used several remedies, I steadily grew worse. I read statements of people whom Doan's Kidney Pills had helped and had my husband get me a box at F. B. Johnson Co.'s drug store. Since using this remedy I have been free from backache and all kidney disorders."

"But I had to let you stay, sir, because you, the sole accuser, are the only one who can tell me what I must know."

"What do you want to know?" asked Sanders, who had realized his great mistake in losing his temper, in talking as openly and as violently as he had and in dragging the name of Senator Stevens into the controversy. He must try to keep Stevens from hearing of this day's blunder, for Jim Stevens knew as well as he, didn't he, that the man who loses his temper, like the man who talks too much, is of no use in politics.

"I want to know how you formed your opinion of political matters—of senators. Is it possible, sir, that you have actual knowledge of actual happenings that give you the right to talk as you have? I want to know if I must feel shame, feel disgrace, sir, to be a senator from Mississippi, that state, sir, that the Almighty himself, sir, would choose to live in if he came to earth."

"There, there, senator, don't take too seriously what I have said," Sanders replied in reassuring tone, having outlined his course of action. "I lost my head because you wouldn't promise me something I needed—that appointment for Hagley. What I said about senators an' such was all wild words—nothin' in 'em. Why, how could there be, senator?" This query was a happy afterthought which Sanders craftily suggested in a designedly artless manner.

"Just what I thought and know!" exclaimed Langdon sharply. "It couldn't be; it isn't possible. Now you go, sir, and let it be your greatest disgrace that you are not fit to enter any gentleman's house."

"Oh, don't rub it in too hard, senator. You may need my help some day, but you'll have to deliver the goods before-hand."

"I said, 'Go!'"

"I'm goin', but here's a tip. Don't blame me for fightin' you. I've got to fight to live. I'm a human bein', an' humans are pretty much the same all over the world, all except you—you're only half natural. The rest of you is reformer."

After Sanders' departure the colonel sat at his table, his head resting in his hand, the events of the day crowding his brain bewilderingly.

"The battles of peace are worse than any Beauregard ever led me into," he murmured. "Fighting to conquer oneself is harder than turning the left flank of the Eighth Illinois in an enflaming fire."

But the new senator from Mississippi did not know that for him the wars of peace had only just begun, that perhaps his own flesh and blood and that of the wife and mother who had gone before would turn traitor to his colors in the very thickest of the fray.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY HEARS ROOT AND KNOX

Today's Inquiry In Panama Case Reaching Out.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Secretary of State Elihu Root, Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, and Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Russell of the department of justice, in response to subpoenas, appeared today before the federal grand jury now investigating in this city the publication of alleged libelous articles in the New York World and the Indianapolis News, connecting the names of Chas. P. Taft, brother of the president-elect; Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law of President Roosevelt, and William Nelson Cromwell, with the Panama canal purchase.

Assistant United States District Attorney McNamara, read today to the jury the full text of articles containing the alleged libelous statements. This took up the greater part of the morning session. Attorney General Bonaparte has been in conference with President Roosevelt in regard to the statement which Mr. Bonaparte has announced he will issue regarding the case. This statement, it is now said, will not be made until next week.

Secretary Root was secretary of war at the time of the canal purchase, while Senator Knox was attorney general at the same time.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell.

VINOL CURES CHRONIC COUGHS, COLDS AND BRONCHITIS.

After Other Remedies Fail

"I have been troubled with a chronic cold and bronchitis for a long time and have tried many remedies without finding relief. Through the kind suggestion of a friend I tried Vinol, and after taking four bottles, am entirely cured." A. H. Wilde, 733-8th Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

S. McDonald, 147 W. Congress St. Paul, Minn., writes: "I contracted a severe cold last winter and thought I would never get rid of it. I tried Vinol as a last resort, and it has completely cured me."

Vinol combines two world-famed tonics, the healing, medicinal properties of cod liver oil and tonic iron, deliciously palatable and agreeable to the weakest stomach. For this reason, Vinol is unexcelled as a strength-builder for old people, delicate children, weak and run-down persons, after sickness and for Chronic Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis.

Vinol is sold in Rushville by F. B. F. B. Johnson & Company.

CURES CATARRH

Lytle's Drug Store Will Furnish the Medicine Free in Every Case Where They Fail to Cure Catarrh.

Neglect or pessimism we believe is the greatest enemy the public have to contend with when applied to the loss or recovery of health. Practically every case of consumption might have been cured if hope had been maintained and proper treatment had been resorted to at the first symptom of the disease. Until the advanced stage is reached, consumption is curable. Catarrh is responsible, we believe, for every case of consumption. It is about Catarrh we want to talk to you today, incidentally consumption, since the two are so closely allied.

We have a medicine made from the prescription of one of the most successful catarrh specialists known.
This medicine has a record of 98% of cures, and we believe it is positively without an equal. We are so satisfied that we are right, that we will supply the medicine free in every instance where it is used according to directions for a reasonable length of time and fails to cure and give satisfaction in every particular. We want every one in Rushville to try this medicine at our risk. There are no conditions or formality attached to our offer. We put the user to no obligation to us whatever.

The medicine we want you to try is Rexall Muen-Tone. It is a catarrh remedy that goes direct to the seat of the trouble. It is carried by the blood to every part of the system. It seeks out and destroys the germs or parasites which cause Catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones up the mucous cells, soothes and heals the tissues that were ravaged by the catarrhal parasite, and brings about a condition of health and strength that prevents the germs of consumption from ever getting a start. Besides this, Rexall Muen-Tone is a wonderful appetizer, digestive aid and flesh builder. Its good effects are felt from the very first dose. It is one of the largest and most satisfactory selling medicines that we have ever had anything to do with. We know so much of the great good that it has done that we personally back it up with our reputation and money, which fact should be ample guarantee to satisfy anybody.

Rexall Muen-Tone in two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. We urge you to try it. Lytle's Drug Store Third and of a large congregation in the temple, who were gathered to see the man who had been lame from his birth now perfectly healed. In this discourse Peter looks back not only to the death and resurrection of Christ, but away farther back to the prophecies concerning Him and to the covenant made with Abraham and then onward to the time of His coming again to restore all things of which the prophets have spoken. Thus we have another example of the contents of the Scriptures and how to use them—the humiliation and suffering of Christ, the center of all, and the kingdom of the circumference. See in I Pet. i, 11; iv, 13; v, 1, his repeated references to the sufferings of Christ and the glory that shall follow. It is written in Isa. xxxv, 6, among other samples of kingdom life, that "the lame shall leap as an hart," and in this man of our lesson walking and leaping and praising God we have a fulfillment of that prophecy, for, as I understand it, the kingdom was not irrevocably postponed till by the martyrdom of Stephen they rejected the Holy Spirit, as they had the Father and the Son.

As the apostles preached the good news there were not thousands saved every day or every week, but daily some saved ones were added to the church (ii, 47). There is quite a contrast between helping a poor blind beggar and winning thousands of souls, and yet the former may as truly glorify God as the latter. Not many lives are filled with startling events, but every redeemed life may be filled with so called commonplace to the glory of God. I find much help and comfort in meditating upon the life that was lived in the humble home and the carpenter shop of Nazareth, with which the Father testified that He was well pleased.

In the opening verses of our lesson the temple is very prominent, but neither tabernacle nor temple was anything apart from Him who said, "Let them make Me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them" (Ex. xxv, 8).
One greater than the temple, who when He cleansed it said, "Make not My Father's house an house of merchandise" (Matt. xii, 6; John ii, 16).
While, as a rule, there was at this time no real worship of God in the temple, we must remember such as Zacharias and Simeon and Anna and that our Lord Jesus Himself often taught the people there. The gate Beautiful is at least suggestive of Him who is "altogether lovely" (S. of Sol. v, 16) and points onward to the time of the kingdom when the walls of the city shall be called Salvation and her gates Praise (Isa. lxxvi, 18). The inhabitant shall not say, I am sick, and there shall be no more death nor sorrow nor crying nor pain on the whole earth (Isa. xxxiii, 24; Rev. xxi, 4). The needy, the poor and him that hath no helper shall find a true helper in the King who shall then reign in righteousness (Ps. lxxii; Isa. xxxiii, 1, 17). If any would inquire why this man was born lame, see John ix, 3, and lay to heart verse 4 and let God work His works in us. This poor man asked, "expecting to receive" (verse 5), which is more than can be said of many who profess to pray to God. May Ps. lxxii, 5, become truly our own experience.
We see in the days in which we live an unprecedented grasping for silver and gold because of that which people think it will do for them, because they know not the Scriptures, that "neither silver nor gold shall deliver them in the day of the Lord's wrath," and that no rich man can by any means redeem a soul nor give to God a ransom (Zeph. i, 18; Ps. xlix, 6, 7). In Jesus Christ, the Creator of all things, who alone can truly say, "The silver is mine and the gold is mine" (Hag. ii, 8), are durable riches and righteousness and health for body and soul. To know Him as Peter and John did is better than all earth's riches or wisdom or might (Jer. ix, 23, 24). Peter washed, sanctified, justified and Spirit filled is in such conscious fellowship with the risen Christ that he can be such a channel of health from Christ to this lame man that all the people can see it. All believers should be in such fellowship with Christ that something of His life and power might be seen in each of us, to the glory of God (Phil. i, 20; II Cor. iv, 11).

Talking to Israelites, Peter magnified the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, whose son Jesus, the Holy One, the Just, the Prince of Life, had been killed by them, but by God had been raised from the dead, and insists that in His name alone had this lame man been healed. He therefore urges them to change their minds about Jesus and receive Him as their Saviour and Messiah and thus obtain the forgiveness of sins. The gospel that does not proclaim the forgiveness of sins through Jesus Christ is not the gospel of God, but some other which does not proceed from God, but from the devil.
Moses and all the prophets foretold a Messiah who should suffer before He should reign, and Peter urges them as children of the prophets and of the covenant not to miss the inheritance within their reach.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 24, 1909.
By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Life lessons from the book of Genesis.—Gen. i, 1-8, 26-31.

Twelve books of the Bible, one for each month, have been selected for our study in the present year. In a note on the United society's topic card it is explained that these books were "selected by a large company of leading clergymen and laymen on the way to the Seattle convention, who chose the books of the Bible most helpful to them." It is also added that "in each case the entire book is open for comment." This gives to all Christian Endeavorers an excellent opportunity to study twelve of the most important books of the Bible, not in parts, but as a whole. This opportunity should be improved. Each month the entire book should not only be read, but also studied. Such study will prove most interesting and do away with much ignorance that exists concerning the Bible because of the tendency to study but short passages of each book. (1) Get a good general outline of each book. (2) Then familiarize yourself with the details under each head of the outline. The results will amply pay for the time and study given in following such a plan.

The book of Genesis, as its name implies, is a book of beginnings. In it we have recorded the beginning of the heavens and earth, the beginning of the Sabbath, of the human race, of sin, of God's punishment of sin and of the life of the chosen people of God from Abraham down to the death of Joseph. Its contents may be divided into four parts:

1. The creation, including man and his fall—i, 3.
2. The antediluvian history of mankind—ii, 4-9.
3. The deluge and subsequent events —vi, 11.
4. The patriarchal age, including the lives of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and his twelve sons to the death of Joseph —xii, 50.

Under some such outline the contents of the entire book stand out clearly before us and may help us greatly in the more detailed study of the book itself.

But Genesis is more than a simple statement of the early facts in human history. It reveals God as the Creator of the universe and all that is within it and thus lays the foundation of our faith in our God as the Creator and Preserver of all things.
It tells the sad story of the corruption of the entire human race through the disobedience and sin of the first Adam. It tells how sin entered into the world, but not why it entered.
Then with these things and what follows up to Abraham as a background its chief design is revealed in that it is to show how God revealed Himself to the first fathers of the Jewish nation in order that He might make to Himself a people who should be His witnesses on the earth and through whom the second Adam, or the Saviour of the world, was to come.

Genesis, above all, should speak to us of God—God in creation, God in us, we having been created in His own image; God in the human race and God in a people especially chosen to witness to the world of Him and to lead a lost world back to Him. "In the beginning—God."

BIBLE READINGS.
Gen. ii, 1-3; iii, 1-13; iv, 3-7; vi, 1-8; vii, 1-7, 17-24; xi, 1-9; xii, 1-9; xxii, 1-17; xxviii, 10-22; xli, 1-7.

A Miracle of History.
The latest book by the popular pastor of Broadway tabernacle, New York city, Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D., is entitled "The New Crusade." One of the chapters is on "Young People of the Church," and in the chapter is the following cheering and inspiring word about Christian Endeavor:

The century was more than three-quarters gone before the third great movement of our age was born. It was in 1881 that the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor started upon its phenomenal career. At the end of eighteen years it has 56,000 societies, with a membership of 3,400,000. But these figures do not tell the full story of its conquests. Like the river of God, it overflows its banks, and in all parts of Christendom new societies with new names spring into existence, begotten by the spirit which the Endeavor movement has created and strengthened and instructed by its examples and its methods. A million and a half of young men and women, although marching under other banners, belong to the great Endeavor army. Five millions of the young people of the world organized into a training school for Christian service in less than two decades! It is one of the miracles of Christian history. The future historian of the Christian church will say that Christendom entered upon a new era that February night when in the city of Portland the first Endeavor society was formed.

Spirituality and Success.
The gibe that we sometimes hear that a man who is eminent for his spiritual life is a weakling in human affairs is as untrue as it is silly. The road to true success here on earth, the road that leads to well balanced, sound, unerring judgment in earthly matters, is the road that leads to God.
True spiritual mindedness does not unfit a man for this world, while it is fitting him for another. To be saintly toward the heavens is not to be sickly toward the earth.—Rev. Francis E.
Clark, D. D.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Vaudet tonight two films will be shown, "Duty vs. Revenge," and "The Professor's Trip to the Country." Both are good subjects. The illustrated song is that great barn dance song "Mornin' Cy," to be sung by Miss Clara Gregg. Saturday afternoon the popular matinees will be given. Many ladies and children attend these matinees.

The Social alleys will be open to the public tonight and tomorrow night.

The skating rink will be open for skating tonight.

Tickets for the minstrel show to be given next Tuesday evening at the Grand theater, under the auspices of the city band were put on sale today at Hargrove & Mullins' drug store. Rehearsals are held regularly every night and the amateur stars are expecting to put on the best local show ever given in this city.

"A Texas Elopement" and "A Hobo's Bike" are the titles of the subjects to be shown at the Grand theater tonight. The first picture depicts the story of ranch life in which pistols and bucking brones play an important part. The other subject is a comic one, showing the troubles of a tramp who attempts to ride a bicycle. Miss Iva Brown will sing "Come Back, My Sailor Boy."

is the best test as to the durability of a shoe. Most boys' shoes are very clumsy affairs. Not so with ours—they are as strong as shoes can be built, but they are skilfully made—good looking—perfect fitting and not clumsy. Uppers of Box Calf, or Tan Leathers. Oak Tanned, double soles, welted and stitched. All sizes and widths.

Prices, $1.25 to $4.00, according to size,
